Fifteen Arrested

State Game and Fish Commission wardens have arrested a total of 15 persons for hunting violations in the past week, seven of whom were arrested in a group Monday night, Game Warden Patrick Toomey said Tuesday.

Eight persons arrested last week were caught in various locations throughout the county and were found guilty of several different infractions. All were from the Ansley-Pearlington area.

All eight were fined $128 each by Justices of the Peace Lee Klein and Joseph Dobson. As first offenders they were warned that a second offense would bring a three month jail sentence.

Toomey and Game and Fish Warden C.J. Cameron, assisted by Hancock sheriff's deputies, arrested the seven Picayune men Monday night about 10:30 p.m. as they were caught headlighting rabbits in beat two, Ridge Road vicinity. The men were also hunting illegally well past the hour after sundown curfew.

Jonas Bates and Calvin McClellan were issued tickets for appearances before city magistrates, the following were taken to Hancock County Jail and held overnight pending a Tuesday night hearing: Levie Jones, 26, Freddie Brister, 20, Lee Jones, 26, Webster Jones, 25, and David Jones, 27.

MEETING

The Jaycee Bowl is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Jaycees. Proceeds are used to provide three scholarships to the three high schools in the county. Also, a $100.00 scholarship will be given to the young lady selected as

School Board Pays Teacher's Back Wages

Hancock County School Board agreed to pay $400 in back wages to Mrs. Ruth Summers, former teacher's aid at the Clermont Harbor Special Education School, following a petition at a November 7 meeting by attorney Walter Phillips, representing Mrs. Summers.

The former teacher, who had been engaged by the county school system during the 1971-72 term, contended that although she had signed a contract to teach, she was peremptorily discharged two days before school opened last September without satisfactory notice or reason.

Although minutes of the August 18, 1972 meeting reflect a motion to pay Mrs. Summers $3,600 annually, no subsequent minutes showed any discussion or decision to discharge her for the 1972-73 term. She had tried unsuccessfully since September to collect the balance of her salary, she said.

According to a decision by board attorney Ruble Griffin Mrs. Summers was paid through district funds rather than Title I, rendering the necessity of a contract invalid. However, Griffin explained, if her employment was approved by board action and she had worked the contracted length of time, she was due full remuneration. A motion was passed to authorize payment of the $400.

Board members Eric Larsen, Tommy Shaw and Lamar Lee presented a report of a recent inspection of Hancock North Central High School, made by request of the board. Larsen told the board that the inspection team found the maintenance and general condition of the school to be "most unsatisfactory".

The principal, James Voivedich, was not in the school at the time, however the group completed a tour of classrooms, rest rooms, cafeteria and all other facilities, he stated, and felt that immediate repairs were needed in a number of areas. The girls' rest rooms were especially bad and a good masonry worker should be employed to effect renovations to walls and ceilings, he concluded.

No action was taken on the report.

In other business, McCarty urged the board to consider dropping the Title III program now in effect. School board bookkeeper Edward LeVasseur made a counter recommendation that the board carefully consider all ramifications of the program before taking any negative action as he pointed out the Title II program was bringing some $70,000 annually into the school coffers. The board agreed with Larsen that a more propitious time to drop the program, if the decision was made to do so, would be at the end of the school year.

Complaints from principals of Gulfview and Hancock North Central schools concerning a recent board ruling charging principals rent for school system-provided housing was aired.

Gulfview principal L.D. Ladner and Voivedich at the high school had filed objections to the mid-year ruling by the board which reversed a long-standing practice by which free housing on school grounds was furnished by the board to principals of those two schools, both situated in somewhat isolated rural areas. This year, the two principals were notified that they were to assume rent and utilities for the county-supplied residences. The administrators complained that they were not given prior notice of the change in policy. After a short discussion, a motion was passed to rescind the original motion, and provided for the school system to again assume rent for the two residences with utilities paid by the occupants.

CLOSED THURSDAY
The Post Office in Bay St. Louis will be closed all day Thursday - Nov. 23 (Thanksgiving Day). There will be no city or rural delivery on that day.

Collection boxes will be picked up as usual and regular outgoing mail dispatch will be made. Service will be provided for Post Office Box delivery and for Special Delivery Service.

Candidates Face Runoff Tuesday

In Tuesday's runoff, voters will choose a Hancock County School Board member to represent Beat Five.

Larry Joseph Koenen and Johnny Banks survived the first primary and will face each other in the election next week. County-wide voting, with the exception of those living in the separate municipal school district will choose the winner.

On the same day, James J. Doyle will face Edgar Moran for the position of Beat Four election Commissioner. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Fines Levied On Narcotics Charges

Fines ranging from $300 to $1,000 were imposed by county Justices of the Peace on four local youths arrested in two separate cases of narcotics violations.

Thomas S. Mitchell, 26-year-old Kiln resident, arrested October 28 for possession of marijuana, was found guilty as charged and fined $250 in an October 31 hearing before Peace Justice Joseph Dobson. Dobson told Mitchell that he received a minimum fine as this was his first offense but warned that any subsequent arrest would bring a maximum penalty.

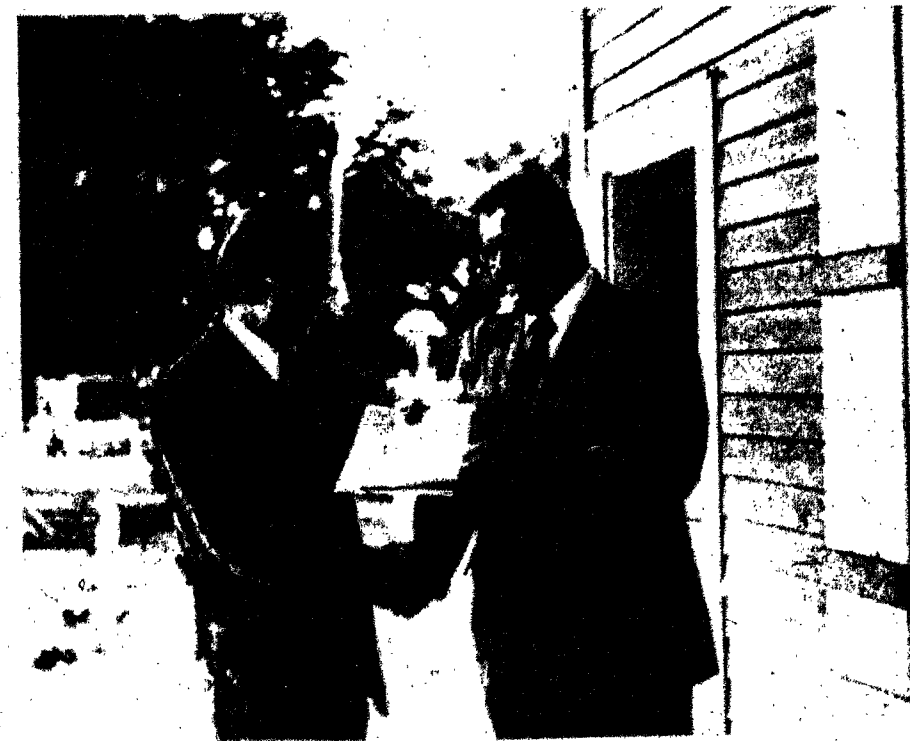

Justice of the Peace Roger Dale Ladner imposed a fine of $300 each on David Fayard, 18, and Raymond Schmidt, 19, arrested October 23 in Bay St. Louis for possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. Peter Kerney, 19, arrested with Fayard and Schmidt, was sentenced to six months in the county jail and $1,000 fine. This was Kerney's second arrest for the same charge in recent months.

In a similar but unrelated case, Waveland Police Justice Lucien Gex dismissed charges of possession of marijuana against Phillip Mollere, 18, Coleman Ave., Waveland in a Nov. 9 hearing. Mollere and a 16-year-old companion were arrested by Waveland police and sheriff's deputies October 27. The juvenile male was turned over to Youth Court authorities pending a later hearing.

YOUTH CENTER

The Bay St. Louis Jaycees have announced plans for reopening the Youth Center. Preparations are now under way and more details will be announced at a later date.

Rock Band Looking For Friendly Ears

The plight of a local rock band, trying for months to find a place to practice, was graphically brought to light Sunday night when an early evening practice session ended at the county jail.

The group of six youthful musicians, who call themselves Corruption, started practicing Sunday about 5:30 p.m. at the Sycamore St. home of a band member. By 6:30 p.m. a next door neighbor who goes to work at 4 o'clock in the morning felt he had heard all he could take (admittedly, hard rock is not music to go to sleep by). At the home of Justice of the Peace John Gonzales, he signed six warrants for disturbing the peace and Bay St. Louis Asst. Police Chief Douglas Williams duly served the warrants shortly thereafter.

Booked at the county jail under the above charge were Michael Horne, 21, Dan Perniclaro, 21, Felix Werner, 19, Bernard Silvestri, 20, Thomas Moran, 18 and the band's singer, Cheryl McCullough, 18.

After being released on $50 bond each and the crowd of about 18 sympathetic friends had left, the band sat on the jail steps and discussed their predicament. The group has been playing at social parties and college fraternity functions.

In desperation, the band got a portable generator and tried what they thought was an isolated section of the beach, but apparently it wasn't isolated enough. The police came. The band left.

"We even went down to Jackson Ridge," Dan Perniclaro said, "and would you believe they ran us off from there?"

As two members are Playhouse residents, the group tried practicing there but ran into the same situation compounded by the problem of hauling many pieces of heavy equipment back and forth, often late at night. Sunday night's session was particularly important, they explained, as the band was scheduled for a recording session Tuesday night in Laurel.

"I think it's the long hair," Mike said. "I think a lot of people are afraid of guys with long hair—they think we're burns. But we work. We all have day jobs and play every chance we get."

They have to work, and hard, to pay for their equipment which is expensive. The average band member will have from $3,000 to $5,000 worth of his own electronic equipment and he's lucky if he gets it paid for by the time it has to be replaced. Although Corruption practices only two nights a week, most professional bands practice a minimum of five hours a day, seven days a week.

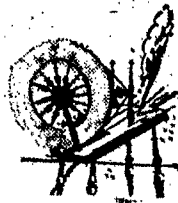

A hearing on the case is set for Thursday night before Judge Gonzales and as well as the possibility of fines, the band is still facing the dilemma of finding a place to practice - where they won't disturb the peace.

They are also well known to the local police as for months almost every practice session eventually brought a complaint from neighboring residents who were obviously not rock music fans. Sympathetic to both parties, police officers would dutifully answer the call. According to Bay police, a request to "hold it down" or to come to a complete stop was always complied with.

Realizing that practicing in various band members' homes was not the answer, the quest began for an acceptable place, or a place where they'd be accepted. Frank Trapani's offer of a room at the Sideliner's Club had to be abandoned as practice sessions often conflicted with club meetings or activities, Mike Horne explained. Another offer to use Jake Morreale's warehouse in an open field back of the Winn Dixie shopping center ended with complaints from nearby residents.

Red Beans And Rice

Adrienne Shottle

The five members of a typical American family have just finished eating a typical American supper.

As the wife begins to clear off the dishes, the children retire to their respective rooms to face homework.

The husband has slipped away to the den, perchance to catch up on some reading.

Standing over the sink, the wife looks forward to a quiet evening conversing with her husband on the toils of a typical American day.

Suddenly, and without warning, a sound unlike any other she has ever heard reverberates throughout the home. Some vocalizing is discernible but it is a few minutes before she hears the voice of impending doom announce, "This is Howard Cosell. . . welcome to Monday Night Football on ABC!"

Fear clutches the wife's throat as she realizes that it is indeed Monday night and that Howard and Dandy Don have forced their way into her home to describe this week's meeting of the minds between the New Orleans Saints and the New England Patriots.

This scene is only one of many which occurs all over America not only on Monday night but on Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon, Sunday morning and Sunday afternoon. . . all for one reason, FOOTBALL.

This phenomenon has taken hold of approximately 99 percent of the male population (and a goodly number of females) of this country.

Football teams have found their way into the hearts of schools everywhere. There are Peewee teams, Junior teams, Junior High teams, Senior High teams, Freshman College teams, Varsity College Teams and finally, Professional Football teams, the VALHALLA OF PIGSKIN FANATICS.

There are touch football teams, Powder-Puff teams and even some talk of starting Pre-Primer teams. In the latter case, toddlers would crawl through their plays, dressed in colored diapers, passing the bottle to team members. The training pot would be used as the goal line.

Think of it. Today the Super Bowl, tomorrow the Baby Bowl.

Educational institutions are no longer known for their fine law schools or engineering departments. Rather ye shall know them by their coaches and their standings in the AP Top Ten.

Now perhaps you don't believe all of this is really happening. You may say to yourself that this foolish talk about football addiction is the result of hysterical women's libbers and other fringe organizations.

But consider the case of Leonard Frebunck of Perth Amboy, N.J.

Leonard's wife became a little concerned after he refused to move from in front of the television set for two weeks. However, this was not unusual as Leonard had previously set a record of 241 hours of consecutive football-game watching in 1971 during bowl game season.

On the fifteenth day, Leonard's wife spoke to him. He knew something was wrong when Leonard made no move to hit her as she changed channels on the TV. She took a closer look at him and realized to her horror that Leonard was dead.

Her grief was multiplied by the fact that Leonard had to be buried in an upright position, clutching a can of beer.

Those of us who despise the game, find it dangerous to criticize football in the presence of avid fans. However, it holds the same sort of adventuresome excitement as condemning bing to a group of Catholics.

But we will continue the struggle. Perhaps we can have Pete Rozelle declared a national disaster.

Better yet, the surgeon general may one day come out with the statement: "Warning, Football May Be Hazardous To Your Health!"

Riders Form Pony Club

A group of youthful English saddle horseback riders met Sunday afternoon at the Brasher Farm in Gulfport for the first meeting of a branch of the Jackson Pony Club.

The local club will be affiliated with the National Pony Club and has been organized through the efforts of Mrs. David Sanlin of Pass Christian and Mrs. Larry Strickland of Gulfport.

The initial group, numbering seven young B, C and D riders, were taken through a mounted session by Mrs. Strickland covering dressage, cavaletti and jumping. A number of other interested English riders from the Coast area also attended. Taking part in the classwork were Boccil Daniels, J.J. Sanlin, Coco Lafaye, Penny Newcomb, Betsy McCall,

Ginger Sanlin and Jimmy Ryan.

The Pony Club originated in England to develop young serious riders to improve their equestrian proficiency while at the same time training their horses and ponies for hunt, show ring and pleasure riding.

Mrs. Sanlin has issued an invitation to join the Club to any coast residents interested in English riding. The group plans to meet every Saturday afternoon for the time being at the Brasher Farm on Highway 53. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Brasher or Mrs. Sanlin for further information.

"When people realized they were out of a job, they had to find a way to make a living," Haas recalled, "and moonshining seemed to be the best way."

Rock Band Looking For Friendly Ears

The plight of a local rock band, trying for months to find a place to practice, was graphically brought to light Sunday night when an early evening practice session ended at the county jail.

The group of six youthful musicians, who call themselves Corruption, started practicing Sunday about 5:30 p.m. at the Sycamore St. home of a band member. By 6:30 p.m. a next door neighbor who goes to work at 4 o'clock in the morning felt he had heard all he could take (admittedly, hard rock is not music to go to sleep by). At the home of Justice of the Peace John Gonzales, he signed six warrants for disturbing the peace and Bay St. Louis Asst. Police Chief Douglas Williams duly served the warrants shortly thereafter.

Booked at the county jail under the above charge were Michael Horne, 21, Dan Pernicaro, 21, Felix Werner, 19, Bernard Silvestri, 20, Thomas Moran, 18 and the band's singer, Cheryl McCullough, 18.

After being released on $50 bond each and the crowd of about 18 sympathetic friends had left, the band sat on the jail steps and discussed their predicament. The group has been playing as Corruption for close to two years and is relatively well known in the Gulf Coast area, playing for school dances, private parties and college fraternity functions.

In desperation, the band got a portable generator and tried what they thought was an isolated section of the beach, but apparently it wasn't isolated enough. The police came. The band left.

"We even went down to Jackson Ridge," Dan Pernicaro said, "and would you believe they ran us off from there?"

As two members are Piquette residents, the group tried practicing there but ran into the same situation compounded by the problem of hauling many pieces of heavy equipment back and forth, often late at night. Sunday night's session was particularly important, they explained, as the band was scheduled for a recording session Tuesday night in Laurel.

"I think it's the long hair," Mike said, "I think a lot of people are afraid of guys with long hair-they think we're bums. But we work. We all have day jobs and play every chance we get."

They have to work, and hard, to pay for their equipment which is expensive. The average band member will have from $3,000 to $5,000 worth of his own electronic equipment and he's lucky if he gets it paid for by the time it has to be replaced. Although Corruption practices only two nights a week, most professional bands practice a minimum of five hours a day, seven days a week.

A hearing on the case is set for Thursday night before Judge Gonzales and as well as the possibility of fines, the band is still facing the dilemma of finding a place to practice - where they won't disturb the peace.

They are also well known to the local police as for months almost every practice session eventually brought a complaint from neighboring residents who were obviously not rock music fans. Sympathetic to both parties, police officers would dutifully answer the call. According to Bay police, a request to "hold it down" or to come to a complete stop was always complied with.

The five members of a typical American family have just finished eating a typical American supper.

As the wife begins to clear off the dishes, the children retire to their respective rooms to face homework.

The husband has slipped away to the den, perchance to catch up on some reading.

Standing over the sink, the wife looks forward to a quiet evening conversing with her husband on the toils of a typical American day.

Suddenly, and without warning, a sound unlike any other she has ever heard reverberates throughout the home. Some vocalizing is discernible but it is a few minutes before she hears the voice of impending doom announce, "This is Howard Cosell... welcome to Monday Night Football on ABC!"

Fear clutches the wife's throat as she realizes that it is indeed Monday night and that Howard and Dandy Don have forced their way into her home to describe this week's meeting of the minds between the New Orleans Saints and the New England Patriots.

This scene is only one of many which occurs all over America not only on Monday night but on Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon, Sunday morning and Sunday afternoon... all for one reason, FOOTBALL.

This phenomenon has taken hold of approximately 99 percent of the male population (and a goodly number of females) of this country.

Football teams have found their way into the hearts of schools everywhere. There are Peewee teams, Junior teams, Junior High teams, Senior High teams, Freshman College teams, Varsity College Teams and finally, Professional Football teams, the VALHALLA OF PIGSKIN FANATICS.

There are touch football teams, Powder-Puff teams and even some talk of starting Pre-Primer teams. In the latter case, toddlers would crawl through their plays, dressed in colored diapers, passing the bottle to team members. The training pot would be used as the goal line.

Think of it. Today the Super Bowl, tomorrow the Baby Bowl.

Educational institutions are no longer known for their fine law schools or engineering departments. Rather ye shall know them by their coaches and their standings in the AP Top Ten.

Now perhaps you don't believe all of this is really happening. You may say to yourself that this foolish talk about football addiction is the result of hysterical women's libbers and other fringe organizations.

But consider the case of Leonard Frebunk of Perth Amboy, N.J.

Leonard's wife became a little concerned after he refused to move from in front of the television set for two weeks. However, this was not unusual as Leonard had previously set a record of 241 hours of consecutive football-game watching in 1971, during bowl game season.

On the fifteenth day, Leonard's wife spoke to him. He said that he was watching the game.

She knew something was wrong when Leonard made no move to hit her as she changed channels on the TV. She took a closer look at him and realized to her horror that Leonard was dead.

Her grief was multiplied by the fact that Leonard had to be buried in an upright position, clutching a can of beer.

Those of us who despise the game, find it dangerous to criticize football in the presence of avid fans. However, it holds the same sort of adventuresome excitement as condemning bingo to a group of Catholics.

But we will continue the struggle. Perhaps we can have Pete Rozelle declared a national disaster.

Better yet, the surgeon general may one day come out with the statement: "Warning, Football May Be Hazardous To Your Health!"

Riders Form Pony Club

A group of youthful English saddle horseback riders met Sunday afternoon at the Brasher Farm in Gulfport for the first meeting of a branch of the Jackson Pony Club.

The local club will be affiliated with the National Pony Club and has been organized through the efforts of Mrs. David Sanlin of Pass Christian and Mrs. Larry Strickland of Gulfport.

The initial group, numbering seven young B, C and D riders, were taken through a mounted session by Mrs. Strickland covering dressage, cavalletti and jumping. A number of other interested English riders from the Coast area also attended. Taking part in the classwork were Boccia Daniels, J.J. Sanlin, Coco Lafayette, Penny Newcomb, Betsy McCall,

Ginger Sanlin and Jimmy Ryan.

The Pony Club originated in England to develop young serious riders to improve their equestrian proficiency while at the same time training their horses and ponies for hunt, show ring and pleasure riding.

Mrs. Sanlin has issued an invitation to join the Club to any coast residents interested in English riding. The group plans to meet every Saturday afternoon for the time being at the Brasher Farm on Highway 53. Interested persons may contact Mrs. Brasher or Mrs. Sanlin for further information.

Two - Way Street Not The Answer

Bay St. Louis city officials agree that returning Main St. to a two-way thoroughfare was a bad idea.

But they bowed to the wishes of the merchants and business people in that area and decided to try it on a 60-day trial basis. It is obvious that something must be done to rejuvenate the downtown business section. But making Main St. two-way is not the answer. In fact, it's part of the problem.

With parking allowed on one side of the street, traffic moving in both directions is not only dangerous but time consuming for the would-be shopper. The intersection of Main St. and Beach Blvd. is hazardous for those who are brave enough to attempt either parking on Beach Blvd. or turning from one street on to another. In short, a two-way street creates a situation that will keep people away from that area rather than enticing them to shop there.

The business people have a right to be concerned about the future of downtown Bay St. Louis. The possibility that everything will move "to the highway" is a very real threat.

A closer look at the future potential of that area and suggestions as to what could be done to improve the present situation would be of much more value than hit-and-miss proposals.

City officials and downtown business people should join forces to find a realistic solution to the problem. This could insure a bright future for this area of Bay St. Louis.

GUEST EDITORIAL

This week we received a generous mail order offer. Six hundred dollars was ours to enjoy. To do with as we liked. No collateral, no co-signers and no security. Sign the card and mail it back. That sounds easy enough.

The offer came from the "Family Fund" division of a large company—an alleged friend of the people. We all need six hundred bucks for odd things like bills, groceries, kids' clothes and if the terms are right maybe a small batch of wine, women and song.

The terms. Let's check the terms. Amount of loan $600 to be repaid in 30 consecutive payments of $29.36 per month, okay? Run that by again. Thirty times thirty is 900. Thirty times $29.36 can't be much less. Let's get into details.

The annual percentage rate (God bless the Truth in Lending Act) is given as $34.75; the total finance charge as $297.32; total return payment is $380.80!

This double their money offer is, according to the card, being made under the laws of the state of Kentucky as provided in Kentucky Revised statutes, with the U.S. Mail being cited as agent.

If the loan is approved the first payment falls due 30 days after the date of the loan agreement—not 30 days after receiving the loan.

And although the card is entitled "Computer Data card"—it is also headed up as a "Loan Agreement" and carries "today's date."

Both these claims spell trouble to the borrower as: a) the U.S. Mail is neither called that nor we suspect a willing partner in the loan; b) should the funds be received in bulk to retire existing obligations the undisclosed delay between agreement date and payment due date may defeat the loan's objective as the first payment may be due the day following receipt of the loan.

Next there is the statement that should the loan not be approved the application and "any evidence of security accompanying it" will be promptly returned to the undersigned (the borrower).

This is particularly interesting as, according to the front of the card, there is no collateral, no co-signer, no security required.

Then, if all this isn't enough, another cute hurdle lies ahead. If the borrower decides to really try to cut down interest by shortening up payment periods or doubling payments, it is still pretty complicated. Charge for this thrift is given as: three percent per month on that part of the unpaid principal balance of the loan not in excess of $300 and two percent per month on that part of the unpaid principal balance exceeding $300 but not exceeding $1,000, and one percent per month on that part of the unpaid principal balance exceeding $1,000 but not exceeding $1,200; composed on unpaid principal balance for the time actually outstanding. Note, all computed on a MONTHLY basis.

The card offers greater or lesser amounts of "easy money" with like reductions for expansions in payments, with details provided on request. Further, the card hints at life insurance coverage from an "Old Reliable" life insurance company but does not say who pays for this valuable service nor who owns the ORLI Co. It does say this coverage may be farmed out but calls for the name of such "farm" should one be so daring.

There is one more thing. The card has one last entry: "Do not fold, bend, or mutilate." It does not say please, just "don't do it."

It probably took a batch of Philadelphia lawyers to figure this card and we suspect that whatever other documents are involved are equally phrased.

We suggest in times of need, that you don't become the Philadelphia cream cheese, and if you get this card or a like offer in your mail have the biggest, most expensive card folding, bending and mutilating party you know how.

You'll save money, headaches and an awful lot of sweat on your journey of paying back just about for one.

AFTER HARVEST JOBS

Start now making next year's crop the best yet. Do some post-harvest work now instead of waiting until the rush season next spring.

Here are some jobs that you can do now to save time next spring and get off to an earlier start.

Clean out drainage ditches and shred stalks following harvest.

Deep plow, chisel or subsoil soils that need it. Subsoil diagonally to row direction and make this the last trip over the field with equipment until next spring.

Follow the combine or cotton picker with a lime spreader truck if your soil needs lime. The only sure way to tell if the soil needs lime is to take some soil samples and have them analyzed.

On land that is not subject to erosion or long periods of flooding, apply phosphate and potash now.

Land-form or at least fill pot-holes on fields that need it. Sometimes all that is needed will be a good disking and land planing.

Apply needed herbicides to soils that are to be plowed this fall.

Get your equipment in good shape and store it properly so that it will be ready to go in the spring when you need it.

PLANT LEGUMES
It is not too late to plant legumes in grass pastures for better grazing.

Plant Regal or Louisiana S-1 in fescue sod. Bermuda or bahia-grass pastures will give early spring grazing if they are overseeded with crimson or arrowleaf clover or with wild winter peas and vetch.

Inoculation on newly seeded legumes provides the bacteria that is needed for the plants to manufacture nitrogen. The seed dealer can supply the specific inoculant for each legume, since some legumes require different strains of bacteria.

WEED CONTROL ON NON-CROP LAND

This is a good time of year to use 2,4,5-T or 2,4-D to control weeds and bushes along fence rows, ditch banks and around farm buildings. Several reasons are:

There is no crop injury from drift. Anyone who has seen 2,4-D damage on cotton or tomatoes can appreciate this.

Using a basal spray of 2,4,5-T in diesel fuel will give a better kill of some bush species like ash, maple, conifers and resistant species than will foliar sprays.

The basal spray treatment works best on small bushes less than three inches in diameter, but is still fairly dependable where good basal coverage is made to plants up to six inches in diameter.

Five million boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 19 are part of the 4-H program. This makes 4-H America's largest youth organization. Supporting their efforts are a half million volunteer adult leaders, the men and women of the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee, and 55 business donors.

Our readers write

Dear Sir:

Regarding the proposal of the city of Waveland to tie-in with the Bay St. Louis oxidation pond, perhaps it would be a good idea for the city fathers to let the citizens of the area who have been adversely affected by this "improvement" voice their feelings in the matter. It seems that such a move would compound the problems already existing in connection with the oxidation pond. Also, the question arises of how wise this move would be in view of the fact that the Environmental Protection Agency is going to require communities to provide secondary treatment of sewage by 1975, and oxidation ponds are merely conversion systems, not even considered primary treatment. Could this move be one that is "penny wise and dollar foolish" and another step backward when Congress has recently approved 75 per cent financing of sewage treatment plants.

An item in the Echo in quoting one of the city councilmen indicated that the reason this system has not "worked" is that it is not used by enough people. To quote from Fundamentals of Ecology, a textbook by Eugene P. Odum now being used in colleges, "Use of a semi-natural design of this sort requires a large amount of space—about one acre for the treatment of household wastes of 100 people—and judicious maintenance. It should be emphasized that the waste stabilization pond is really a conversion system, not a complete treatment system." The same authority indicates that such ponds should not be placed in an inhabited area.

Anyone living in the area can attest to the fact that they are "polluted" by the odor emanating from this pond and the sickly green outfall that flows from the pond all the way to—and into the Jordan River.

Is it satisfactory just to see if the EPA will approve such a plan that will "do" for now—when in a few short years something else will have to be done? It would seem more in the interest of progress and the future of the communities involved when growth and development possibilities are considered, to make a careful evaluation of the situation and do the right thing NOW.

Sincerely yours,
Yvonne Sallinger

(The following letter is reprinted at the request of the writer)

Dear Mr. Seeger:

We would like to thank you and the Clean up and Beautification Committee thru the Echo, for having the picture of our home in the paper.

We are proud of our home and yard, and spend much time, and give a lot of ourselves to it. We are sorry the picture wasn't taken a month earlier, when the crepe myrtle and the hydrangeas were in full bloom and our beautiful roses weren't so tall.

Many cars passed by and really looked. Some even stopped to admire it, and stopped and congratulated us on our lovely yard and home. Thank you again for including us.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

"The tumult and the shouting die. The captains and the kings depart..."

It's all over for another four years; the hurlyburly and the oratory have melted into the atmosphere, the promises and accusations are one with the blasted hopes and ambitions of the losers, and now for a spell we can return to the daily business of living.

Thanksgiving Day is just around the corner, and Christmas can't be far behind. Several new precedents were set in this election. The tradition of the Solid South was smashed into little pieces for the first time since Reconstruction days, a candidate has carried all but one of the States for the first time in modern history, and never has the will of the people been more emphatically expressed.

Among the sidelights of the election that we noticed were these: the President, in spite of getting an enormous majority of the popular votes, was unable to carry into office with him many local candidates, which proved that the voters, when faced with "home" issues, were still acting independently—much makes the national result even more of a personal triumph for Mr. Nixon, and which should give campaign planners a cue that the next election will be decided on its own merits and that no pattern has been set by this one.

The whopping big Republican victory brings to mind some other landmarks during the past seventy years. First there was the drubbing that Gov. Cox of Ohio took from Warren Harding—though the country scarcely benefited from that one. Then there was the "Happy Warrior," Al Smith, who got a sound spanking from the Republicans and Herbert Hoover—and again the country ran into trouble with the greatest depression it had ever experienced, and it took the Democrats, FDR and a terrible war to bring it back on an even keel. And still another case was the incomprehensible licking suffered by Barry Goldwater when Johnson polled the biggest popular vote of all time up to now, and again the country went through some pretty bad times.

We don't dare to hope that Mr. Nixon's 49-State victory is going to make life all peaches and cream from now on, and one thing is sure: the great Republican victory presents the Party with a challenge to make good in a big way. It is

by Jean Edwards
Neighborhood Ecology Center

Recently I noticed a picture in the paper of a broken tree in a neighborhood playground, apparently caused by someone swinging on it. It is for this person and others like him who may have never thought seriously about how necessary trees are now, and always have been to our survival, that I am writing this article. I do not condemn him for "not thinking". We have all been guilty of that at some time or another. I only hope he will begin now to think of a tree as friend, worthy of respect.

Over one million acres of forest land are being paved over or cemented every year yet two Ohio research scientists say that there is evidence that trees may be a primary factor in preserving man's most vital resource -- AIR. It is possible to survive for weeks without food and for days without water but less than five minutes without air.

Trees and other green, growing natural materials help to filter falling dust and other pollutants by trapping the particles in their leaves.

For example, Dr. Chauncey D. Leake, Assistant Dean of the College of Medicine at Ohio State University, has called for extensive planting of trees and other green things (Maybe 10 times for every automobile and 100 for every truck) to depollute the air. . . . while humans inhale oxygen and exhale carbon dioxide, trees take in carbon dioxide and discharge oxygen, greatly helping to purify the air," writes the Rhenows in "MOMENT IN THE SUN."

According to pathologist Leon S. Dochinger and Biological Technician Frederick Bender, both at Steubenville, Ohio, some 35 million tons of dust fall and suspended pollutant particles are added to our atmosphere each year. "For years," the researchers say, "man has observed how trees cleanse the air, but he has remained unaware of how important trees are in this role. One has only to look at the dust coatings on the tree trunks, branches and foliage along unpaved roads, or the whitish mass of chemical deicers splashed on woody plants during winter months, or the gritty film of particles on conifer and hardwood trees found near stone quarries and cement kilns to realize the importance of trees. In all instances, tree plantings curb the movement of particulate matter."

If you have been to New Orleans lately you can vouch for the "validity" of the researchers findings if you happened to have noticed that most of the pampas grasses, those tall plants with fluffy white plumes in the center, are very dirty indeed.

Trees and plants also help absorb noise and help to maintain quiet around your home.

These are two very good reasons for planting and protecting trees and plants. Beauty is an added benefit and some trees not only provide shade and keep the weather cooler in the summer, many provide nuts and fruits. All trees and plants keep the soil rich with humus by their leaves falling and decaying. Their roots help to keep the soil from eroding or cracking and washing away. And don't forget that houses, paper and lots of other things are made from trees.

Is It Time To Reform The Property Tax?

© 1972, Nation's Business, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Reprinted from the September issue.

Much too much nonsense is being spoken and written and believed about the property tax.

Not one taxpayer in a thousand, and not one businessman in a hundred, understands what is wrong with it. Even assessors charged with its administration are too apt to confuse it with an income tax—they grossly underassess land that is kept so underused or misused that it is earning too little income, and then grossly overassess land whose owners have put it to good use to earn a good income. The one and only thing most taxpayers seem to know about property levies is that their bills keep getting bigger and bigger and bigger.

And indeed, property tax collections have multiplied by eight since 1939. But nobody seems to realize the reason: Over these same years local government costs have multiplied by more than 13. Local government has become America's biggest growth industry, and somebody has to pay its costs. There is another aspect of property taxation, that few taxpayers realize—or seem to care about. Its misapplication is the biggest single cause of blight in our cities, and of the sprawl in the suburbs that prematurely urbanizes millions of acres which should be left open country for years to come.

In too many tax districts, improvements are taxed so heavily that there is little if any profit in them unless they are given some kind of open or hidden subsidy (and often as many as four different kinds of subsidy).

Conversely, land is taxed so lightly that in-city landowners are under too little tax pressure to put it to good use and suburban landowners can afford to hold millions of acres, needed now for orderly growth, off the market until they can get tomorrow's prices today—thereby forcing developers to leapfrog far into the boondocks to get land they can afford to buy.

Sadly unwise. Said the consensus of a round table conference of urban experts cosponsored by the Conference of Mayors, the Council of State Governments, the National League of Cities, the National Governors' Conference, the International City Management Association and the National Association of Counties:

"Wisely applied, the property tax on which local governments depend for 87 per cent of their tax revenue could be one of the fairest of all taxes; but as most cities apply it today it may well be the very worst—a weird combination of vertaxation and undertaxation, an incentive tax for what we don't want and a disincentive tax for what we do want. It harnesses the profit motive backward instead of forward to both urban renewal and urban development. Too often it makes it more profitable to misuse and underuse land than to use it wisely and fully, more profitable to let buildings decay than to improve them or replace them.

"Too few tax levies seem to understand that the property tax is not just one tax; on the contrary, it combines and confuses two completely opposite and conflicting taxes, and it would be hard to imagine two taxes whose consequences for urban renewal and urban development would be more different.

"One of the conflicting taxes ... is the tax on the improvement—on what past, present and future owners of the property have spent or will spend to improve it. And it must be obvious to anyone that heavy taxes on improvements are bound to discourage, inhibit and often prevent improvements.

"The other levy ... is the land tax—the tax on the unimproved location value of the site, on what the property would be worth if the owners had never done anything or spent anything to improve it. And it must be obvious to anyone that heavy taxes on the location cannot discourage or inhibit improvements ... (they) could put effective pressure on owners to put sites to better use so as to bring in enough income to earn a good profit after paying the heavier taxes."

"You would think every city would try to tax land heavily, and tax improvements lightly if at all; but just the opposite is the case: Almost every city collects two or three times as much money from taxes on improvements as from taxes on lands. In fact, many cities tax improvements more heavily than the combined local, state and federal taxes on any other product of American industry except hard liquor, cigarettes and, perhaps, gasoline."

HOW BIG IS 3 PER CENT? A 3 per cent-a-year tax on improvements—a rate exceeded in many hard-pressed cities—may not sound big compared with the federal income tax that scales up to 70 per cent and actually takes away almost 11 1/2 per cent of consumer income. But it sounds small only because it is expressed as a percentage of capital, whereas the income tax—as its name makes clear—is expressed as a percentage of income.

The enormity of the improvement tax becomes self-evident when we restate it in income tax, sales tax and consumer tax terms. First, in income tax terms: A 3-per-cent-of-true-value levy on improvements is apt to tax away 75 per cent of the net income a new building could otherwise earn.

And now, in sales tax terms: A 3-per-cent-of-true-value levy on improvements is the installment-plan equivalent of a 52 per cent sales tax; i.e., it will cost the improver as much as a 52 per cent lump-sum sales tax would cost him if he could finance it at 5 per cent interest over the 80-year life of the improvement.

And finally, in consumer tax terms: A 3-per-cent-of-true-value tax on improvements will cost the consumer more than a 25 per cent consumption tax; i.e., it will add more than 25 per cent to the rent a tenant must pay, or more than 25 per cent to the carrying costs an owner must meet.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY Conversely, most tax districts assess and tax underused land so lightly that its owners can hold $1 million worth of land off the market at a net yearly tax cost seldom if ever exceeding $10,000 while its price climbs an average of $60,000! Such undertaxation has made land speculation by far the biggest and most lucrative of all tax shelters—a multibillion-dollar one that allows speculators capital gains treatment not only on their own investment but on the many-times-bigger unearned increment their "ripening" land derives from the investment of other people's money that is needed to make the land reachable, livable and richly salable.

(Around New York, investment by other taxpayers to pay the proportionate capital cost of added police and fire protection, and new schools, streets, water supplies, sewage systems, hospitals, etc., is itemized by the Regional Plan Association at $20,000 per residence—or, say, roughly $80,000 per acre. And that's a juicy subsidy, enabling a speculator to sell land for, perhaps, 20 times what he paid for it.)

Taxpayers may find it easy to understand that heavy taxes on improvements are bad not only for themselves but for everybody. But they also must understand that increasing the tax on land is just as important, for at least three big reasons. First, there is no other tax by which local governments could recover the revenue they would lose by reducing the tax on improvements.

2. Increasing the too-low tax on land would do as much to stimulate urban development and urban renewal as reducing the too-high tax on improvements, for it would combine the carrot of tax reduction on improvements with the stick of heavy taxation on land.

An eight-year study covering land sales in Milwaukee indicated a startling result. If improvements were untaxed and the whole weight of the city's 4-per-cent-of-true-value property tax were shifted to land: The arithmetic of property ownership would so change that, with no urban renewal subsidies whatever, it would be profitable for owners of all the vacant lots and obsolete buildings now preemting so much valuable Milwaukee land to erect buildings that make better use of the sites.

3. Unless land is taxed quite heavily—and this means much more heavily than it is now taxed—any reduction in the levy on improvements would be capitalized overnight into higher land prices.

Why? Because land on which you can erect a lightly taxed improvement is worth a lot more than land on which any improvement will be heavily taxed.

Today's almost universal underassessment and undertaxation of land is the No. 1 reason why the Douglas Commission found land prices in this country soaring 6.19 times as fast as the rest of the price level. It is the No. 1 reason why St. Louis, where the property tax is too low, is in even more trouble than Buffalo, where the property tax is so high.

It is the No. 1 reason why in Europe, where the property tax is close to zero, land prices are so crazily high that a 50-by-100-foot lot in a quite ordinary suburb 15 miles from the capital of Switzerland costs more than $60,000; the No. 1 reason why, on the fringe of London, land zoned residential sells for $120,000 an acre in Hendon, $168,000 in Hampstead, $183,000 in Ealing and $192,000 in Wimbledon.

It's also the No. 1 reason why more than 80 per cent of new homes being built in Europe today have to be land-thrifty high-rise apartments, and why private enterprise has been priced out of 45 per cent to 80 per cent of the housing market there. END

Don Lee scored the final TD of the game for the Hawks on a 35 yard run. The extra point attempt was no good but the Hawks had a 28-27 lead with eight minutes to go in the game.

Hancock held St. John for the balance of the quarter and went on to win their second game of the season. The Hawks ended the season with a 2-7-1 record.

Among some of our local duck hunters are August Bauxet, his sons, Nicky, and Ronnie. They killed a few last weekend out in the La. Marshes. David Sibley and Luke Elliott got some ducks over in La., our friends John P. Ristoph and Dr. Cliff B. Comeaux, Jr., from the Baton Rouge Area are waiting to come down to do some duck hunting in the La. Marsh. They are friends of Luke Elliott and August Bauxet and make an annual hunt here.

M.F. Cass of Hattiesburg and Clifton B. Foster of Memphis are overdue for the fall fresh water fishing. Better come on down fellows, the fish are here and striking. Glad to hear that Mrs. Pauline Gladell is home after a stay in the hospital, results of an auto wreck. Mrs. Gladell is one of our best lady fishermen.

When the speckle trout are running there is no better place to catch them than from Live Oak Fishing Camp at De Lisle, Miss. The camp is a few miles back of Pass Christian at De Lisle off of Wolf River. Boats can be secured.

Willard Peterson and Dick Mestayer do most any kind of hunting but they are waiting for the quail season to open. That is their favorite sport. We think.

Understand Jimmy Travira has been under the weather, but is O.K. again. Good News, Jimmy.

Along the hunting line, most hunters have their favorite kind of hunting. Ours is snipe and woodcock hunting. These two birds are migratory birds. When flushed, they fly low and erratically giving a harsh scaple, then level off. They prefer wet meadows, marshes and bogs. Their brown striped backs make them difficult to see. Hard to hit. Wonderful eating. There will be plenty snipe and woodcock when the season opens.

Am sorry to report the death of Ellhee "Bobo" Carver. Bobo was a local resident and prominent figure, probably known by everyone.

Met Milton Inch and Benedick Bourgeois on the seawall Friday. As usual they were fishing, shrimp, etc. Both are ardent fishermen and usually get their share of fish. Old timers at that sport.

Harry McCall of Waveland does both fresh and salt water fishing. He has been a seaman for years. Is retired and expects to enjoy fishing from now on.

Al Vetter and wife Belle are real fishermen. They fish every day when possible. Catch all kinds of fish. Al is the commander of the Local American Post 139.

Three couples having a get-together Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. James Bush of Clermont Harbor, Mr. and Mrs. Tyrell Manieri, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Al Vetter is one of our best local fishermen. He fishes every day that is possible. Don't care what he catches, Al is commander of the American Legion and doing a good job.

Tyrell Manieri, Jr. No time for fishing they said at this time.

W.R. Johnson, (Junior) and Mrs. Johnson were down from Baton Rouge over the week end. They were visiting relatives and friends.

Larry Larroux and family were having a ball at the Turkey Shoot Sunday. Larry is trying to catch up on his work so he can go back to fishing. Loves to fly fish.

Richard Matheny and W.C. Daniel do fresh water fishing. Richard said they have been giving green trout the dickens, lately. They are from Gulfport but fish a lot in the Pearl River Section. Using Repalas they have been getting some large bass.

Now is the time for Turkey shoots. The American Legion Post No. 77 will have it's shoot at the County Fair grounds on Sunday, Nov. 19th. Plans are being made for a Gala affair. If you want to have a good time, attend. Donation $1.00.

Jack and Millie Rutledge and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Benigno had a get-together for their friends Sunday at Sam's Bar. The ladies prepared the eats while Jack did the barbequing. Thanks folks for a good time.

According to those who have been squirrel hunting there are more of the bushy tails in the woods now than since Hurricane Camille. The little animals were reduced by the hurricane but are coming back strong.

J. Burton Angelle, director of the Louisiana Wild Life and Fisheries Commission, announced that the Louisiana Wildlife Museum, 400 Royal Street, New Orleans, was closed to the public during the week of November 13-17 while painting and minor repair work took place.

On Monday, November 20, the museum again will be open to the public free of charge.

An estimated 150,000

visitors from all parts of the country and from many foreign countries visit the museum each year, including thousands of school children.

The Louisiana Wildlife Museum is considered one of the finest in the south, he said, and the work that is contemplated will be expedited during the week that it is closed.

Believe it or not plenty hard crabs are being caught in Pearl River proper, now. The water is brackish as far up as Pearlinton. Crabbing from wharfs and landings is popular.

Quite a crowd attended the S.S.C. Turkey Shoot Sunday at the Stadium. Both young and old tried their luck at winning a Thanksgiving bird. Some were winners and some were not. Credit goes to all the workers who spent the day handling the affair. Turkey Shoots are always interesting.

Some oysters are being gotten in waters out front. They are not too large but are fat and salty. A few shrimp are being netted off the seawall. They are mostly for fishing as bait. Fish markets have some shrimp. They run from 70 to 90 cents per pound according to size.

Haven't heard of too many rabbits being killed. Not too many hunters now a days own a rabbit dog. A lot of fun following a good dog and the cotton tails make for excellent eating especially when in a stew or fried. Again colder weather is needed.

The second segment of the dove season opens on Nov. 23 and ends on Dec. 2nd. As of now there haven't been too many doves. Lets hope the second season will be better.

St. Clare Teams End Winning Season

Coach Fred Peterman and his St. Clare Warriors completed the 1972 football season with winning records for both teams.

The big team won five and lost two. The two lost were only by six points. A tremendous team effort played a big part in the successful season, also with outstanding performances from Clarence Piza, David Turcotte, Greg Fuchich, Santo Saucier, and Steve Longo.

The little team won four games and lost two. The two lost were, one by six points and the other by fourteen points. This fine performance gave them second place in "The Pee Wee Independent League." Also they had one of the best records of any other St. Clare's little football teams.

Each player is to be congratulated for a tremendous effort, including outstanding play from Greg Bostic, Scott Fayard, Donnie Stroud, and Kenneth Fuchich.

Rocks Defeated By Stone

St. Stanislaus lost their final game of the regular season by the score of 28-6 to the Tomcats of Stone County by the score of 28-6.

Raven James of the Tomcats led the scoring with three touchdowns and carried the ball 10 times for a total of 346 yards.

Stone scored in the 1st, 2nd and 4th quarters.

James' three touchdowns came on runs of 79, 54 and 78 yards. The fourth Tomcat score came on a three yard run by Johnny Buckhalter. All four extra point attempts from placement by Peter Saia were good.

The lone Stanislaus TD came in the fourth quarter on a 55 yard run around end by Rick Kergosien. The extra point attempt was no good making the final score 28-6 in favor of Stone.

Stone's Tomcats met the East Central Hornets Friday night in the Pickle Bowl at Perkinson.

The Rock-A-Chows ended their season with a 4-5-1 record.

Southern Memorial Park

Situated among beautiful surroundings, SOUTHERN MEMORIAL PARK is regarded as a dedication in itself to the beautification of the community.

In a great measure we are judged as to the extent of our love for those who have passed before us, by what we do in their commemoration. The first thing of consequence is the selection of the estate. In this vicinity, when you select in SOUTHERN MEMORIAL PARK you have paid the deceased your highest tribute.

Every effort is made by SOUTHERN MEMORIAL PARK to soften the sorrow of the bereaved. Every precaution is taken to allow families to conduct burial services in conformity to their religious beliefs and family traditions.

The 1973 Mississippi Arts Festival will sponsor the seventh annual literary competition under the chairmanship of Mrs. John D. Downey.

This year for the first time, Mrs. Downey and her committee—Mrs. David McMullin, Mrs. Howard Jones, Mrs. Vernon Chadwick, Mrs. William Wardlaw and Mary Ann Turpin—hope to be able to give public exposure to the winning entries by printing these selections in a Festival pamphlet to be distributed at the Festival's Literary Seminar. (However, any contestant may withhold permission for such printing if he wishes.)

The 1973 Literary Competition is open to all native and resident Mississippians. Judges in each category will be chosen by Mrs. Downey and her committee. There will be a Senior Division for adults and college students and a Junior Division for high school students. Only unpublished, uncopyrighted and unpatented work will be accepted.

Deadline for the entries is January 23. All winners will be announced at the 1973 Arts Festival in May. A hundred dollar prize will be awarded to the first-place winners of the Senior Division in the following categories: short story, essay, poetry, drama and stories for children. Stories for children is a new category. The committee hopes it will inspire persons who have not entered the contest before and will stimulate those who have to submit a new kind of entry. In the Junior Division a twenty five dollar prize will be awarded the winners of the short story, essay and poetry divisions. The judge may select two first place winners in the essay category if there are two superior entries, one of which is formal and the other informal. The sponsors who have contributed to the Literary Competition in order to make these cash awards possible include the following: Deposit Guaranty National Bank, Magnolia State Savings and Loan Association, Hester and Hester Agency, Jackson Federation of Women's Clubs and Mrs. George C. Wallace.

There is an entry fee of one dollar, and entrants are limited to one entry in each category. A 2,500 word limit is imposed, upon short stories, essays, and stories for children. In poetry the writer may submit one long poem or no more than six short stories in a group. In drama there must be a minimum playing time of twenty minutes.

Manuscripts must be typed and double-spaced on one side of the paper. There should be a separate, detachable title page accompanying each manuscript, stating: name and address of writer (writer's name must not appear elsewhere); title of manuscript, poem or group of poems; current school, if any; the division and category entered; and title repeated in the upper right corner of each page.

Entries must be submitted to or inquiries addressed to - Literary Competition, 1110 Lyncrest Avenue, Jackson, Mississippi 39202. Rule sheets will be sent out to all public and private high schools and colleges in the state and to public libraries and bookstores. Booklets on script writing are available upon request from ETV, Drawer 1101, Jackson, Mississippi 39202. All entries remain the property of the writer; however, no manuscript will be returned unless a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed.

Riley Commends Biloxi On Aid To Police

"The recent action by Mayor Daniel Guice and the citizens of Biloxi in utilizing the funds being made available through the Revenue Sharing Bill to restructure their Police and Fire Departments merits the attention and commendation of all citizens and local governments on the Mississippi Gulf Coast," according to Earl Riley, Executive Director of the Mississippi Coast Crime Commission.

"This responsible and constructive initiative places the emphasis on recognition for the preservation of our human resources within these departments, with the inevitable result that Biloxi and the Coast should realize improvement in the performance of these governmental services. There is no question that the morale of the personnel of the Police and Fire Departments will be improved and the increased compensation and benefits will induce good qualified personnel to seek employment in this city."

Riley said, "The Crime

Commission applauds the leadership of Biloxi for its action, and we want to urge immediate action by the leadership of all other local governments on the Coast to utilize these Revenue Sharing funds to similarly improve their police personnel programs. The existing unsatisfactory compensation for the personnel of these departments makes it mandatory that they receive top priority in the allocation of these funds. The Crime Commission sincerely hopes that the other local governments will soon follow suit.
